DASYPUS NOVEMCINCTUS?

Is it fair to Texas armadillos if a foreign entry shows up June 8 at the Folk Fete Thoroughbred Armadillo race?

The question crossed our minds after the feedback on NOW of May 26, which boosted the Fete armadillo event.

Texas armadillos are a foot and a half nose to tail, about a foot of tail after that.

What if a Dasypodidae Edentate Africanus Monstrous (our Latin, not science or Darwin's) sidles in from a city zoo, dragging his would-be handler by a chain? African animals, or mammals, are larger than American counterparts if there are counterparts. If an African armadillo is anything like an African anteater, the mammal would be about eight feet long nose to tail and intimidate his Texas counterparts just by rolling up in an enormous, armored ball.

What a shattering experience for a Texas armadillo to be outsize by anything from Africa or South America. Or even maybe from Australia. I tell you, judges, we must keep Texas Thoroughbred Armadillo Races safe for Texas armadillos.

Add to those rules that only purebred Texas armadillos may enter. Any non-Texas armadillos must be disqualified, especially if they are bigger than the locals. But particularly if they are from some Yankee zoo.

Of late, I'm actually beginning to smile in print. I think that silly cat, Deadline, did it.

Asked what she would do if some armadillos got out of hand, particularly the monster variety, Deadline cheshired a smile:

"Armadillos are vulnerable, just like a bear. You attack the nose."

"But suppose a really big armadillo charged at you?" Deadline was asked.

"Then it's like Kojak says: 'Chow, baby'."

"Chow, baby. Cats don't speak Italian to Texas, Mexican, or African armadillos." Deadline heard.

"What should I say? 'Meow'?" Come on, FML, this is 1975. If a modern cat wants to say 'chow', she says 'chow'. Kojak's a Greek and he says 'chow'."

"Even to armadillos?"

"Specially to armadillos, like the eight-foot variety, just before doing a cat-like thing and climbing a tree."

"Is that modern, Deadline?"

"It's safe, a tradition even modern cats maintain."

"Chow, Deadline."

"The only Italian you know, FML, is a poor imitation of the Godfather, so it must be time for me to eat."

"How about 'che sera, sera'?" (What will be, will be...)

"Fatalist! How about Cat Chow, cha, cha, cha?"

Folk Fete Marathon

Entries will be open until Friday afternoon for entrants in the Folk Fete Marathon, to be run Saturday starting at 10 a.m. This will be an 8 mile race and is open to any one who would like to enter a team. Individual or team applications should be turned in to Joe White at White's Television in Cameron.

4 Lives Lost In Weekend Tragedies

The Memorial Day weekend just past was marked by tragedy for local families as two men drowned one man died in a plane crash, and a woman died as the result of an automobile accident.

Death by accidental drowning was ruled by Justice of the Peace Jess Brock Monday about 8 p.m. when bodies of two men who had been missing since Saturday morning were found in a Little River slough.

Ray Jensen, 54, local rancher, and a ranch hand, Jose Guadalupe Camacho, 25, both drowned Saturday morning when they were swept from their horses by swift currents as they attempted to cross the slough, flooded by heavy rains. They were attempting to drive cattle to higher ground as Little River left its banks and flooded the bottom.

Tom Jensen, son of the rancher, was also swept from his horse but managed to grasp the horse's tail and was pulled from the water.

Fire department units from Cameron, Rockdale, Hearne, Rosebud; divers from the Harris County Sheriff's Department; and helicopters from Fort Hood and the DPS all helped in efforts to find the two men.

When the bodies were found Monday night, they were about a mile from the place where they went in.

A diver recovered one body and the other was discovered floating by a boat.

Sheriff Carl Black had high praise for the rescue effort, and said the Jensens were impressed by the number of people who turned out to help.

Sheriff Black said Saturday afternoon Glynn Brown of the Harris County Sheriff's Department, who was in the vicinity, offered services of several divers from Houston. Two were met in Hempstead by a Fort Hood helicopter and brought to the river where they added their efforts to the rescue.

Funeral for Jensen was held Wednesday at All Saints Episcopal Church, with Rev. James Mitchell and Rev. Hubert Yount officiating. Burial was in the Taylor City Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Grace Jensen of Cameron; his mother, Mrs. Anna Jensen of Lexington; one son, Tom Jensen of Cameron; two daughters, Mrs. Jo Ann Lalumandier of Alpine, and Mrs. Nancy O'Toole of Tyler; three brothers, Arnold and Oman both of Lexington, Vaughn of Rockdale; five sisters, Mrs. Velma Going of Lexington, Mrs. Mildred Sanders of Richmond, Mrs. Audrey Stapon of Victoria, Mrs. Fay McMurrey of Dallas, and Mrs. Edith Barry of Houston.

A Ray Jensen Scholarship Fund has been opened at Citizens National Bank in Cameron.

Funeral for Camacho was pending at presstime.

The Federal Aviation Administration is investigating the crash of a light crop-dusting plane which killed the pilot Sunday.

Burned to death in the crash was Billy Pat Ranspot, 44, of Cameron Courts, Cameron. He was killed when the plane crashed and burned in a field three miles north of Cameron near the Silver City road at 12:50 p.m.

According to Sheriff's office reports, Ranspot was checking out the plane when it went into a dive, stalled, and crashed, destroying the plane and burning Ranspot.

The craft, a single engine Piper equipped for crop dusting, burst into flames upon impact, killing the pilot.

Ranspot was a crop duster who had been working out of the Cameron Airport for the last two years.

Funeral for Ranspot was pending at Monahans at presstime. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Ranspot of Monahans, his grandmother, Mrs. Annie Knight of Grand Falls; two sons, Richard of Lott, and James Allen of Waco; a daughter, Vicki Rapp of Elyria, Ohio; a sister, Mrs. John Sargent of San Angelo; and four grandchildren.

A Cameron woman died in a Temple hospital Sunday night from injuries received in a two-car collision at 9:30 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of 22 Street and Highway 77.

She was Mrs. Jessie Mae Josephine Tiffin, 67, who had been a resident of Cameron for a year. She was a native of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Tiffin was driver of a car traveling east on 22 which entered the highway and collided with a car driven by Delvin Burris of Morton.

Injured were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Tiffin, Burris, Cathy Ann Burris, 21; Mrs. Billie Sue Burris, and Marcie Burris, one month old. Treated and released at a local hospital were Burris, Cathy Burris, and Marcie Burris. Admitted for treatment were Mr. and Mrs. Tiffin and Mrs. Burris.

Mrs. Tiffin was transferred to Scott and White Hospital in Temple Sunday where she died Sunday night.

Police Chief Felipe Martinez investigated the accident.

Funeral service for Mrs. Tiffin was at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witness in Cameron with minister Ray Waldren officiating. Graveside service was at 3 p.m. at Laurel Cemetery in Fort Worth.

Surviving are her husband; a son, Stephen Jony of Houston; and four grandchildren.

GED Tests Set

For County Students

The GED test for high school equivalency will be given on Saturday, May 31 and Saturday, June 7 in the Milam High School beginning at 8:30 a.m. on both days.

There will be a fee of $12 charged for taking the complete test, which will not be offered again until September.

This service is offered by the office of the County School Superintendent, Jack D. Ruzicka, county counselor, will administer the test.

Alcoa Closing Potline

Alcoa will temporarily close a smelting potline at its Rockdale Works Saturday (May 31), reducing primary aluminum production by 30,000 tons a year and affecting approximately 100 employees.

It is the second production unit to be idled this year and will bring to 230 the number of people on lay-off at the eight-potline Central Texas plant, according to Fred P. Bergeron, Alcoa's Texas manager. The first curtailment came last March when another 30,000 tons of annual production were trimmed.

Saturday's reduction will lower Rockdale Works' smelting rate to 77 percent of its 285,000 tons-a-year capacity.

Bergeron said five other Alcoa locations are also involved in production cutbacks that will lower Alcoa's domestic smelting rate to about 74 percent of its rated capacity of 1.5 million tons a year. Overall, about 500 employees will be affected at the six plants. Alcoa previously had taken about 232,000 tons out of production.

Other plants scheduled for curtailments are Point Comfort Operations in Texas; Wenatchee and Vancouver, Wash.; Badin, N. C.; and Warrick Operations near Evansville, Ind.

In explaining the cutbacks, Bergeron said, "As a result of our continuing review and constant reevaluation of metal supply-demand relationships, Alcoa has decided to shut down temporarily the capacity involved."

Trustees OK Gym Repairs Plans

Cameron school trustees gave the go-ahead to Supt. Buddy Dulin and architect John Allen to draw up plans for repairs on the gym and for converting gym classroom space to science labs at a called meeting Tuesday night.

Allen, who had inspected the gym showers and dressing rooms and classrooms with Dulin, told trustees it would be less expensive to rehab the gym than to build a new structure.

He listed repairs and additions needed for the gym dressing rooms and showers, and said the floor has settled in the girls side of the gym, indicating that the drain may be leaking under the floor slab.

He said strip lighting should be installed, the underside of the bleachers should be sealed and ventilation system provided to take care of winter and summer exhaust.

Allen recommended repointing on four cracks in the gym walls where water is entering, and fill for a corner where the cement foundation bottom is exposed. Partition studs supporting the bleachers have rotted out and should be reinforced, Allen said, and the sill replaced.

Dulin and Allen said some 3,000 square feet of space is available upstairs in the gym for conversion to science labs. There is space downstairs on the east end for rest rooms, concession stand, and a classroom.

It was agreed that all work could not be done this summer and would have to extend into the coming school year, with adjustments made in use of the gym while repairs are going on.

Allen will write up specifications for bids and said it would be next month before he could have them ready.

In other business, trustees accepted the resignation of Jane Burns Elliott from her teaching position.

Milam County REACT Sponsors Holiday Rest Stop

Milam County REACT Club again sponsored a Safety Rest Stop over the Memorial Day weekend to aid in the safety of people traveling the highway during the holiday period.

The members of the club set up the rest stop east of Cameron across Little River bridge Friday evening at 6 p.m. Club members worked six-hour shifts continuously until 6 p.m. Monday.

Free coffee, cold drinks, and cookies were served to the many travelers who stopped.

The club and the travelers would like to thank McVoy Grocery, Pig-gley Wiggley, Brookshire Bros., and City Food Market of Rockdale; Coca Cola Bottling Co.; Keith's Minimax, Citizens National Bank, and Ben Milam Savings and Loan of Cameron for supplies donated for the rest stop.

cattle Saturday morning. Heavy rains upstream caused the overflow, worst in recent years.

MEMORIAL DAY service was held by VFW Ben Milam Post Monday morning on the courthouse lawn as the flag flew at half-mast. Here a representative of the VFW Ladies Auxiliary places a flower beneath the wreath during ceremonies honoring war dead.

Belief In National Self...

This nation held a Memorial Day for the dead of 200 years of wars. This is nothing new.

What is new is this nation was at peace for the first time in perhaps 15 years this past Memorial Day.

What is also new is that army which seems to be attracting enough volunteers, like the recruiting practices of the Air Force, Navy, and Marines.

This is the legacy of Vietnam, which established student confrontation with the draft, indeed with the idea of war itself.

Somewhat, young people found the Vietnam war more immoral. That it was internal rebellion between communists and Saigon nationalists is clear. What is unclear is whether this particular "nationalism" will remain as the unseen politicization of the south occurs.

Youthful idealists will not know just how similar Ho Chi Minh communism is to Chinese or Russian communism unless they experience it. A free press will not be there. And if a free press is not there, a totality of thought will emerge from this "nationalist" triumph, inevitable as it was.

It was not our kind of war. But we are at peace. Memorial Day remembered the dead of this most complex of wars, and the triumph for American nationalism in other war dead.

The brief recovery incident over the Mayaguez may show a spark of renewed spirit for this country. Few, if any found serious fault with U. S. action. Thailand was angry because U. S. Marines operated off Thailand for a time.

Our mistake in Vietnam was misreading the oriental visage and employing technological "overkill." But there is nothing oriental about communism. It is a European, utopian idea which fills bellies, but stifles brains.

The hope each Memorial Day is that more dead will not have to be honored. But that is impossible. Vietnam was lost because idealism compelled the Vietcong for 30 years, regardless of loss.

Believing in your national self is expensive business.

In Conference Committee...

Texas House-Senate conference committees will further decide what legislation will emerge in two other critical bills in the next few days, bills for a utility commission and public school finance.

The Senate on voice vote turned down 19-12 a House version for a Texas utilities commission, which was considered stronger for the consumer. A less-consumer oriented bill will go to the House, which is expected to turn it down.

Compromise already has brought out a proposed $602.6-million bill for public school finance, which conferees are expected to implement for Governor Briscoe's approval. It calls for an immediate $1,400 annual raise to Texas teachers.

The original senate version of a utilities commission bill contained an amendment which would all but eliminate utility advertising. Media representatives questioned the amendment based on precedent-setting court opinions in Oklahoma and other states and its ultimate constitutionality.

A conference committee will consider both public education and utility commission bills before adjournment next Monday. It is likely a first-level of a utility commission will be established as closing time compels expedient decisions.

The fact that such landmark legislation must emerge amidst thousands of other bills introduced each session is the strongest argument yet for annual sessions of the Texas Legislature.

This Legislature has sent out the basic constitutional proposal for voter consideration in November. We hope the compromise versions of education and utility control consider the balance of public service and a Texas economy which is sounder than most other states in recession.

Big 3 Assignments Spur Legislature

The 64th Legislature is deep into its last final week of activity, with all of its remaining Big 3 assignments still incomplete.

Conference committees have drawn the jobs of adjusting differences between House and Senate versions of these measures:

—The $12 billion all-time record appropriations bill for 1976-77. There is really little controversy, and the budget will be ready for final approval by adjournment deadline Tuesday.

—Public school finance reform. There is plenty of controversy here, with the outcome likely to remain in doubt until near the final gavel. Gov. Dolph Briscoe shows every sign of being determined to veto any measure which overspends revenue in sight.

—Utility regulation through a state commission. Again, there are strong differences between the House and the Senate majority. House leaders insist they have compromised enough in getting their bill passed and want nothing weaker. They are backed by a well-organized citizens group which has served notice it will have the House bill or nothing.

Conference reports can be passed by a bare majority, and they are subject to no amendments.

Oil Increasing

For the 39th straight month, the Texas Railroad Commission has set a wide-open 100 per cent statewide oil production allowable.

Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey said indications are Texas production is "beginning to stabilize and possibly show a slight increase."

The big East Texas field, a deviation from the all-out production pattern, will be held to 86 per cent.

Appointments

Governor Briscoe has appointed former State Rep. Menton J. Murray of Harlingen to the Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, replacing Paul Leonard of Fort Worth who resigned.

Briscoe also announced his intention to appoint Joe R. Carroll of Snyder to Texas Water Rights Commission. Carroll will succeed Otha Dent of Austin who resigned before expiration of his term.

Industries Slow

Only 15 new industries located in Texas during April, compared with a 25-per-month average in 1974. Jim Harwell, executive director of Texas Industrial Commission, said the 15 will have an annual impact of $137 million on the Texas economy and create nearly 4,000 new jobs.

The industries will locate in Longview, San Marcos, Brownsville, Corpus Christi, Gainesville, Clear Lake City, La Grange, Midland, San Antonio, Sherman, Summerfield, Tyler, Henderson and Liberty.

Courts Speak

The Third Court of Civil Appeals turned down Atty. Gen. John Hill's request for rehearing of an effort to stop a $45 million Southwestern Bell Telephone Company intrastate long distance rate hike.

Hill's motion to modify judgment to prevent the increase going into immediate effect also was rejected. The Attorney General has promised to appeal.

Texas Supreme Court turned down a suit by Amarillo, Borger and Pampa against Canadian River Municipal Water Authority over distribution of costs for operation and maintenance of an aqueduct, dam and reservoir.

Plainview, Lubbock, Brownfield, Levelland, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Slaton and Lamesa sided with the Water Authority.

AG Opinion

A bill which would permit distribution of state-owned textbooks to pupils of non-public schools "probably" is constitutional, Attorney General Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

Domestic relations courts may appoint masters in chancery, but only in exceptional cases for good cause.

An educational and recreational fund administered for benefit of state prisoners may be invested or spent for prisoners' benefit in any manner consistent with purposes of the trust, law and proper prison system management.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

That government that governs least is not necessarily the best, any more than the one that governs the most is. Somewhere in between there ought to be some sort of a happy medium, but it doesn't look like it's being struck.

For instance, the governmental agency that regulates television has come out with a ruling that's going to throw a monkey wrench in TV commercials. If two women are comparing detergents, it says, and pretending to be next-door neighbors, but in reality are actors, then the commercial has got to say so. If a man claims his wife, whom he loves very much, eats right, exercises, and takes two of those tablets every day to make sure the patent medicine company makes money, then, I suppose, she really has to take two of the things every day, plus exercising and eating right. And if her husband stops loving her, I suppose she's got to get one that does or drop the commercial.

I don't understand such rulings. If women can be taken in by two hired actors praising soap, there's not a governmental agency in the universe smart enough to devise a law to protect them. If they start taking two tablets a day because some bright-eyed actress claims she does, let 'em. If you're going to have complete honesty on television, the next step of course would be to require Marshal Dillon to use live bullets. And when a villain swerves his car off a mountain road and over a cliff, he's got to be in it. Be a good way to stop some of the shows.

I'll tell you, when you start requiring actors who brag on buses to ride them, actors who tout patent medicine to take the stuff, actors who smack their lips over corn flakes to eat the things, you're going to wreck television, not to mention a lot of sick actors.

Maybe the people in the Washington bureaus are taken in by such commercials and need protecting, but people around here mostly just mutter and guffaw.

You reckon we need a law prohibiting law-makers from making any more laws for a while?

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Urban Africans are to be allowed 30-year leasing rights to properties in black townships surrounding white cities, instead of being forced to rent on a month-to-month basis. ## Farmers Fly On Grain Fertilizer

By Bill McCutchen
Grain sorghum in the low areas is about to drown out and quite a few farmers were flying on ammonium nitrate to try to revive the sick sorghum. Most were flying it on terrace channels and low areas at 100 to 125# of ammonium nitrate per acre. Ricky Randspot, who is flying out of the Cameron Airport, was making the applications.

It will be very interesting to see the results of these applications, as a usually fertilizer must be applied within 35 days of planting to be economical. In this case, however, it may well be economical if it snaps the sorghum out of its drowned and severe nitrogen deficient condition.

POTATO DIGGING TIME

Home gardeners are digging potatoes and many have called to ask if there is anything they can be treated with to prevent them from rotting as they are so full of water.

There is no compound that I can recommend but, if you will put them under a shed with good air movement, or stretch hardware cloth or other netting and spread them thinly over this for a couple of weeks to dry a little before moving them under the house or wherever you plan to store them it will save a lot of potatoes.

DO YOU HAVE SQUASH BUG TROUBLE?

Squash bugs and squash vine borers can, and usually do, kill squash vines in the peak of their production.

You can control these insects by applying 50 or 80% Sevin as a dust to the base of the plant and on the ground immediately at the base. Put it on pretty thick, but do not apply it to the leaves or on the blooms. This application will control these insects until it rains and then you should make a second application.

Sunflower Tour

Set For Friday

Cen-tex Cotton Oil mill of Thorndale has announced a Sunflower Tour May 30 beginning at 9 a.m. The tour will assemble at the Wood-switch Gin on Farm Road 50, 5 miles north of Mumfords in Robertson County.

Several sunflower fields will be toured in the immediate area to evaluate the crop at this point.

Insurance Reduces Crop Risk

With all the violent weather that has plagued Texas farmers in recent weeks, more thought should be given to federal crop insurance, believes an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Federal crop insurance can reduce production risks for farmers as their costs continue to rise sharply," points out Dr. Wayne Hayenga. "Such insurance protects working capital committed to crop production."

Although crop insurance provides only limited coverage, it does cover out-of-pocket production costs in most cases, notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

"About 90 percent of all federal crop insurance is of the 'all-risk' type," says Hayenga. "This type of insurance is available in 84 Texas counties from the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, with coverage limited to cotton, sorghum, corn, peanuts, and citrus. Its main purpose is to protect farmers from a total crop failure. It covers losses, when unavoidable, due to adverse weather conditions such as drought, hail, high winds, floods, and freezing temperatures. Unavoidable losses from insects and disease infestations are also covered."

The insured producer is usually guaranteed a specific yield. When the harvested yield is less than this, the shortage is covered at a price selected from a price options list before the growing season starts. Coverage usually ends at harvest time, points out the economist.

"Crop insurance premiums are generally based on indemnities within certain areas. For instance, hail insurance premiums vary by crop, with sorghum rates from about 1.5 to 8 percent of the coverage while cotton rates usually start at 3 to 4 percent of the coverage. In some hail prone areas, premiums may be as high as 18 percent," says Hayenga.

Since applications for most crop insurance must be made prior to planting time, it may be too late to obtain insurance coverage in most counties. However, Hayenga urges interested producers to contact the county Extension office for details.

BIG Sets June Field Day At Research Center

Agricultural producers and other area leaders will view research aimed at increasing sorghum, cotton, and forage production, and study new crop potentials for the Blackland Prairie on June 5 during the field day of the Blackland Research Center and the Blackland Income Growth (BIG) program.

Field day visitors will observe such new crops as sunflowers, guar, and soybeans as current research is shown, announces Dr. Earl Burnett, director of the Center.

"Tour stops will be made to observe fertilizer tests on cotton, sorghum, and Coastal bermudagrass. Another highlight will be research designed to improve sorghum production by studying the effects of water stress on growth," Burnett says. A field scale demonstration will be shown of a wide bed cultural system to increase grain and cotton yields while providing drainage and reducing erosion, Burnett adds.

"People interested in forage grasses can see field plots of lovegrass and hardinggrass, where selections of improved strains are being made. Research on the control of cotton insects will be another tour feature," Burnett emphasizes.

The Center is located two miles south of Temple just off U. S. Highway 190.

Field day participants will assemble and register from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. on the south side of the Headquarters Building at the Blackland Research Center. At 9:30 a.m., the group will be welcomed by Burnett and J. Gervais Dobbs of Grandview, a cotton and sorghum producer and chairman of the BIG program.

Tours of the research areas will begin at 9:45 a.m. under the direction of the Bell County crops committee.

At noon, a catered barbecue "dutch treat" lunch will be available at the Center. The program will resume at 12:45 p.m. David Cox of Raleigh, N. C., vice-president for the economic research and development division of Cotton, Inc., will discuss "Making Better Cotton Markets Happen."

Two subject matter sessions - one highlighting cotton and the second grains and forages - will be offered from 1:30 until 2:30 p.m., with field day visitors attending the one of their choice.

Speakers for the cotton session will include Dr. David Kissel of Temple, associate professor of soil chemistry with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, who will discuss "Root Rot Control with Salt Treatment," and Dr. John G. Thomas of College Station, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, who will speak on "Pest Management."

The session on grains and forages will feature two scientists with the Experiment Station at College Station. Dr. Earl Gilmore, researcher in genetics and plant breeding, will discuss "New Prospects for Wheat," and Dr. M. E. McDaniel, cereal crops breeding scientist, will speak on "Small Grain Forages."

Visitors will have an opportunity to participate in a tour of buildings and facilities at the Blackland Research Center at the close of the sessions.

Scheduled at 2:30 p.m. is a meeting of all BIG executive committee members and task force advisors at the Center.

The BIG program, first of the income growth programs to be organized in Texas in 1960-61, encompasses about 12 million acres of all or part of 32 Central Texas counties.

Summer Annual Pastures

Summer annual pastures can be productive if handled correctly, says a forage specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Forage quality of summer annual pastures can be higher than summer perennial pastures," contends Dr. J. N. Pratt.

"The first important factor is to use adequate amounts of fertilizer. Summer annual forages frequently produce greater tonnages of forage than summer perennial forages from the same amount of fertilizer."

Although fertilizer supplies and prices are different this season than in previous years, growth and protein content result from adequate amounts of fertilizer—especially nitrogen, points out the Texas A&M University System specialist.

"A soil test is the best method for deciding on amounts of fertilizer to apply. However, in most areas of Texas, at least 60 pounds of nitrogen should be used at each fertilizer application."

"Another important factor," according to Pratt, "is to use the forage when it is high quality. Summer annual forages grow rapidly during spring and early summer when soil moisture and temperature conditions are favorable. Part of the pasture should be fenced separately to permit harvesting hay from excess forage."

Summer annual forages tend to produce large stalks and seed heads rather than leaves when they mature. This means that summer annual pastures should be shredded or harvested into hay whenever plants have a large percentage of stalks, explains the forage specialist.

"After leaves have been grazed from stalks, remove animals to another area," advises Pratt. "Shred the remaining stalks to a height of 6-8 inches to stimulate new leaf development. Then apply a nitrogen fertilizer. Resume grazing when plants have reached 24-30 inches."

County Extension Agents throughout Texas can relate results of demonstrations with summer annual forages in their area, notes the specialist.

Reducing plan for energy users

Plan A

How to save electricity when using dishwashers-water heaters

1. Wash full load of dishes instead of partial loads.
2. Load dishes according to manufacturer's instructions for most efficient operation.
3. Use dishwasher detergent only.
4. Keep filter-screen free of food waste. (Clogged filter causes unit to overwork.)
5. Repair leaking hot water faucets. (A small leak can waste up to 700 gallons a year, plus the energy used to heat it.)
6. To avoid loss of heat, insulate exposed hot water pipes whenever possible. Protect electric water heater from cold air as much as possible.
7. Select proper size water heater for your needs. One that's too big uses energy needlessly.

TEXAS TALK

By Skip Hobbs

Corn crops and pet cats have a common dependence. Neither of them could continue to exist without man. Although there is room for argument about the cats, corn (more properly Indian corn or maize) has succumbed to total domestication. Experts tell us that of the nearly 8000 varieties grown in the world, not one could survive as a wild plant. Progenitor of today's corn was a wild maize believed to have originated in Mexico or Central America where some time ago (probably around 3000 B.C.) breeding and improvement of the crop began. By the time Columbus "discovered" corn on his first voyage to America in 1492 the plant was already doomed to domestication with Indians producing a multiplicity of varieties from Canada to South America. Its popularity persists today with more than 20 percent of our cropland utilized for the production of this totally American crop.

Comments From Chris

By Chris Holcombe

Dewberry crops, as well as brazos berries, are now blushing with ripeness, and promise lots of homemade taste treats. With a little effort and time these berries can be turned into delicious pies, cobbler, jams, and jellies.

We are all familiar with the traditional berry cobbler, but have you ever tried a berry-custard pie? This recipe is one that is a favorite in my husband's family and one everyone will enjoy. The recipe is as follows...

2 cups milk
1 small can of evaporated milk
6 whole eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups berries
2 cups of sugar (approximately)
Pre-heat oven to 400 degrees.
Crush berries slightly and sweeten with 1 cup of sugar or more if berries are on the sour side. Let stand while preparing rest of pie. Combine milk, evaporated milk, eggs, salt, vanilla, and 1 cup of sugar. Add berry mixture and stir. Pour into 2 unbaked 9-inch pie shells and bake at 400 degrees for approximately 50 minutes or until pies are done and quivers. Cool until ready to serve. A delicious and different dessert for this time of year.

It is berry season again. Do you have a surplus or can you purchase them at a reasonably low price? You can have berries for cobbler in the middle of winter or for jelly making by canning them.

How are they canned? Just wash, drain, and cap them as though you were preparing them for eating fresh. Fill clean jars to 1/2 inch of the top of the jar, shaking the berries down for a full back. Cover them with boiling syrup, made with 2 cups sugar and 4 cups of water—a thin syrup or add more sugar if you prefer them sweeter. Leave 1/2 inch space at the top of the jar. Wipe off the sealing surface of the jar and close according to the type of lid being used, following the manufacturer's directions.

Place the jars in a waterbath canner, which is a large container with a rack in the bottom to hold the jars about one inch from the bottom. The container should be tall enough to have space to cover the jars with about one to two inches of water and about the same amount of space above the water. The water should be hot but not boiling when you place the filled jars in the canner. Place lid on canner and bring the water to a rolling boil, but reduce the heat, just to boiling. This prevents the juice from being drawn out of the jars.

Boil pint jars 10 minutes and quart jars 15 minutes.

Remove the jars from the water bath and let them cool. The berries may be canned without sugar if you prefer. Then sugar can be added according to the way they are to be used—cobbler or jellies.

If you want to know more about canning or other types of food preservation, call, write, or come by the County Extension Agents Office in Cameron.

"Drownproofing" Could Save Lives

"Drownproofing" could save your life, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department water safety officials. Developed by Georgia Tech, drownproofing is a technique of staying afloat and conserving energy.

According to a leaflet from the department describing the technique, 60 volunteers at Georgia Tech tried the method for as long as eight hours without stopping. Twenty had their hands tied behind their backs and 20 more had their legs tied in a half-bend position to make them useless.

The average quitting time was four hours and 40 minutes in the water, and many made it the entire eight hours of testing.

The key, according to officials, is to avoid trying to support your head out of water. The average human head weighs around 15 pounds, and trying to keep it high and dry will tire out the strongest outdoorsman.

"The basic ingredient," according to the department leaflet, "is calm, silent, slow motion. Especially lazy people have an advantage here, since they have been practicing slow motion most of their lives, but anyone can learn. The object is to use as little energy as possible and to waste no energy. "Holding your 15-pound head above water, for instance, is unnecessary except for the few seconds every minute you need to take a breath."

Coast Guardsmen in basic training are taught this method:

1. With lungs full, float face-down with the back of the neck just breaking the surface of the water. In fresh water, you may not break the surface much, but in salt water the body has more buoyancy and will float higher. Your full lungs will provide more than enough flotation, even for a natural "sinker." The above position is basically the "jellyfish float" taught to youngsters. Arms and legs should hang freely, exerting no energy.
2. Prepare for a downward thrust, using the arms or legs, a combination of one arm and one leg or all four limbs. Many people prepare for a variation of the breast stroke here, which is good if comfortable. Your legs should slowly move apart, preparing either for a scissors kick or a "froglegs" kick. At the same time, raise the arms forward or to the sides, whichever suits you. They will be used to thrust downward, similar to treading water, horizontally. In both motions, move s-l-o-w-l-y! If it helps, pretend that a shark is near that will attack anything that moves. Some drownproofers find they can use natural wave action to help move the arms. Remember, the object is using the least amount of energy. The movements should take 15-20 seconds.

3. Exhale through the nose while lifting your head. At the same time, move downward or horizontally and bring your legs together. Not much movement is needed to raise the mouth above the water. Some can even keep the chin in the water and still get a mouthful of air, but this can also get you a mouthful of waves.
4. Slowly thrust your arms downward or horizontally and bring your legs together. Be sure to exhale in the water, on the way up. If you exhale too soon, you lose the buoyancy of your lungs. If you exhale too late, you waste precious energy in keeping your heavy, 15-pound head above water.

Here, obviously, you take a breath of fresh air. If you are in rough water, you may benefit from timing your cycles to use your natural rising and falling with the waves.

5. With lungs full, play dead. Face the bottom of the lake or pool, drop your arms to your side and let your limbs hang lifelessly. Think shark. Depending on your natural buoyancy and the buoyancy from your lungs, you may take several seconds to bob back to the surface. Some people must make a second downward thrust (or extend the first) to keep from sinking too deeply. Use whatever method is best for your body and will conserve energy.

The last step, 6, is to relax. With head, arms, and legs dangling, hold your breath as long as it is comfortable. It is natural for pressure to build up in the lungs while holding your breath. If you feel this happening, exhale a few bubbles through the nose. After from 3 to 10 seconds, start the cycle over.

Each cycle should last from 30 to 60 seconds, depending on your rest period, how often your lungs need air and how much energy you have wasted in moving too quickly. The need for a lifeguard cannot be stressed too greatly for experiments. At first, it is easy to panic and get a mouthful of water. But finally, you will become so proficient that you can run through the drownproofing cycle in your sleep.

Murray-Go-Round

By Tom Murray

QUICKIES:
University of Texas football coaches diligently recruited Billy Sims, 190, the Big State's biggest name running back. But, now the dust has settled, the UT Brains insist they would not swap one they got—Hamlin Flyer Johnny Jones, 180, for the Sims they lost. Jones is a consistent 9.4 to 9.5 100-yard dash man. . . Did you see where Rice football Coach Al Conover has shed 25 pounds but still weighs 240? Any wonder why they call him, "Big Al"?

Bernie Peterson, the Galveston Schlitz Distributor, makes friends and clients glad he's a gentle man. The 6-3, 200 pounder looks like he can still go a few brisk rounds in the boxing ring despite having moved into the fifties. Peterson, you recall, is a former professional fighter and long time Golden Gloves State Champion. . . Joe Namath has some shrewd handlers. As shabby as the World Football League is, he made the NFL people dance-a-jig before turning down that phoney 4 million dollar offer. Now, as a free-agent, he's going to make his old New York Jet team sweat as he peddles his aging quarterbacking talent around that loop.

BIG PETE:
Aggie watchers were thrilled to see an announcement in a Houston paper that Peter Watkins had become associated, as an executive, with a big company. Well, that Peter Watkins, of course, is the Pete Watkins who was a mighty Aggie High-jumper in the early forties. . . Speaking of Pete, Lufkin's Pete Rannels, the former American League Batting Champion with the Boston Red Sox, is back in the bigtime. Pete, a Pasadena resident, not only owns Popular Hill Country Summer Camp Champions, along with UT Coach Darrell Royal, but is also part owner of bustling Pasadena Sporting Goods Company.

BOYS LITTLE LEAGUE players are busy warming up before a scrimmage. The game are called off for the week due to the rain. All games will be rescheduled.

Lodes To Conduct Summer Ball Camp

Temple Junior College coach Chaires Lodes will conduct the 1975 Cen-Tex Baseball Day Camp which is scheduled to begin June 2. All classes will be conducted at Memorial Field in Temple.

There will be four scheduled sessions with 40 applicants being accepted in each session.

The class is for 8-12 year olds, who will meet at 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and the class for 13-15 year olds will practice from 1 to 4 p.m.

The sessions are scheduled June 2-6 for the first, June 16-20, June 23-27, and July 7-11 for the other sessions. If the classes are full, another class will be scheduled for June 9-13.

Anyone interested in the program should contact Coach

Lodes at the Temple Junior College Field House.

Rockdale Church Sets Gospel Meet

Tex Williams of Lubbock, director of the Sunset School of Missions and an instructor in the Sunset School of Preaching, will conduct a week-long gospel meeting beginning Sunday at the Murray Street Church of Christ in Rockdale.

Sunday's initial service begins with 9:30 a.m. bible classes, followed by 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. worship services, according to elders of the congregation. Services are scheduled for the remainder of the week at 7:30 p.m. through Friday.

Williams, a native of Waco, attended Texas A&M University and Abilene Christian College. He was graduated from the Abilene school in 1950 and began his preaching career. Williams worked with congregations in Brownwood, Abilene, and Austin in Texas, and in Oakland, California.

He returned to Texas to work with the Boles Home, a Church of Christ children's care center. He spent 13 years in mission work in Southern Africa. As director of the Sunset School of Missions, he travels extensively to many continents visiting various mission points.

Elders of the Murray Street Church of Christ invite friends and neighbors throughout the central Texas area to attend the week-long services.

The Master's Touch

God must love beauty, to use it so lavishly. The Master Artist dapples the soft green leaves with golden sunshine, turns the brook to flowing crystal, and puts a song into Spring itself.

There is beauty in us, too... because He put it there. In His sight, none of us are ugly, none of us are forsaken, none of us are "lost."

But sometimes, in the busy process of day-to-day living, we turn blind eyes upon the world's loveliness, and take for granted the gifts which should brighten the hours and years. We need a faith that gives us vision to find again the inner beauty He gave us in the beginning... a gift which He never takes away. Let us go, then, to His Church. Let us "enter into His gates with thanksgiving... for the Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting; and His Truth endureth forever."

Periwinkle Thrives On Hot Weather

"If you've got an empty spot in your garden and want flowers that will bloom throughout the summer, try Madagascar periwinkles."

That recommendation comes, from Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Madagascar periwinkles, commonly called Vinca rosea at nurseries, begin flowering when only a few inches tall and continue to bloom until the first heavy frost, says the Texas A&M University System specialist. They thrive on hot weather.

Most varieties of periwinkles are from 18 to 30 inches tall, and the flowers are usually rose colored although they can be white, pink, or lavender rose.

"Dwarf varieties make excellent flower and shrub borders," says Janne. "They can be from 8 to 10 inches high and may spread out two feet. Some of the best varieties are Coquette, Little Pinkie, and Bright Eyes."

Trailing or spreading varieties such as Polka Dot and Rose Carpet are good as a ground cover or in hanging baskets or window boxes.

"Periwinkles can be planted in full sun or partial shade and will grow in almost any soil," points out Janne. "They grow best, however, in soil with plenty of organic material."

The horticulturist recommends applying a complete fertilizer before the flowers are planted and then reapplying every four weeks.

"If leaves turn yellow the soil may be too alkaline. So add iron chelates or iron sulfate," advises Janne.

Periwinkles are usually free of insects and disease problems and can add color to the home landscape during those hot summer days when other plants tend to suffer, adds the horticulturist.

MR. BUSINESSMAN: IF THERE REALLY IS NO NEED FOR CONTINUOUS ADVERTISING - MINISTERS

SHOULD PREACH ONLY ONE SERMON OR SO PER YEAR. PEOPLE ARE AGAINST SIN ANYWAY SO WHY RAP ABOUT IT.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS

SHOULD BE TURNED OFF AT DANGEROUS INTERSECTIONS TO SAVE ELECTRICITY. EVERYBODY SHOULD KNOW IT'S A DANGEROUS SPOT AND THAT OUGHT TO BE SUFFICIENT.

HIGHWAY POLICE

SHOULD STOP DRIVING UP AND DOWN THE HIGHWAYS. NO NEED TO CAUTION DRIVERS BY PATROLLING HIGHWAYS. DRIVERS KNOW THE LAW AND ALWAYS OBEY IT.

TEACHERS

SHOULD NOT REVIEW LESSONS. TELL CHILDREN JUST ONCE AND THEY WILL NEVER FORGET.

BUT

IF YOU ARE ONE OF THE FOOLISH KIND-LIKE THE NOTRE DAME CATHEDRAL THAT HAS STOOD FOR SIX CENTURIES BUT CONTINUES TO RING THE BELL EVERY DAY TO LET PEOPLE KNOW IT IS STILL THERE - AND BELIEVE IN CONTINUOUS PROFITABLE ADVERTISING, THEN YOUR ADVERTISING BELONGS IN ---

'Pick Your Own' System Means Saving Labor Costs

For a unique method of marketing fruits and vegetables and at the same time saving labor costs, a Texas Agricultural Extension Service specialist suggests a "pick-your-own" operation.

"Rising food prices and a shortage of labor for harvesting create a read-made situation for customer harvesting of produce," contends Gordon Powell, Extension fruit and vegetable marketing specialist. "The customer is looking for ways to beat high prices and have fresh produce at the same time."

harvest at the same time. Some crops, such as sweet corn, may not be advisable for a pick-your-own plan because of the nature in which the crop matures. "Promotion is important," emphasizes Powell, "and this means timely advertising. Signs, newspapers, radio, direct mail and taped telephone messages can all be used effectively. Producer must keep promotion in line with the quantity of a given crop available at a given time. This helps keep customers satisfied."

A producer who needs harvesting labor can solve his problem by offering produce for direct customersale through a pick-your-own system. The customer does his own picking and grading.

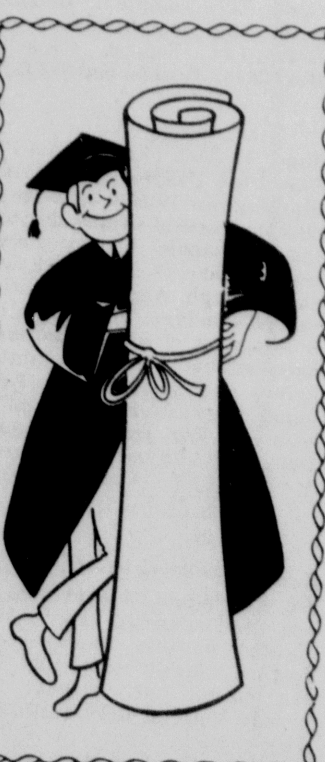

"Before customers begin picking, they should know the ground rules, such as prices, where and how to pick, parking, and other important items. Generally, the limitations of a pick-your-own operation are the grower himself," notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

A producer should have trained personnel in harvesting to supervise or train the customer in proper methods of harvest and in recognizing maturity, emphasizes Powell. Some customers will have no idea when certain vegetables are ready to harvest. This supervision and orientation can be beneficial to both the customer and the producer.

"Producers who live near a larger urban area are in good position to start a pick-your-own operation," suggests the specialist. "Customers will sometimes drive a considerable distance to pick fresh produce."

Before starting such an operation, the producer should consider the crops in demand in the area. Crops can be planned so that several will be ready for

NEW BUSINESS COURSE

Most American business people are aware of the dramatic changes technology has made in business management during the last 25 years. But many are confused by these changes.

The development of data processing has put new tools at management's disposal, altering the concept of information systems. In order to make this new technology a useful tool to aid in management decisions, accountants and business executives must continually update themselves.

Fortunately, there are many programs that can help do this. One is a learn-at-home (or in-the-office) program that teaches planning and control, economics, decision-making concepts, organizational approaches, direct costing, contribution accounting, budgets, standard costing practices, and responsibility accounting through a cassette that allows

WHAT ABOUT INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES TODAY?

Do you plan to look into investment opportunities with a careful eye on safety, return and potential growth? Welcome to the club! You're one of a growing group of American businessmen who are alert to today's investment opportunities but are exercising shrewd judgement and a justifiable regard for minimal risk for maximum return. Knowing the facts in advance is of utmost importance.

One area that is drawing increased attention among the American business community is Mexico, which is encouraging business investments and deposits in her financial institutions by investors from the United States.

He said that an analysis of the economic situation in Mexico showed rapid development, a self-sufficiency in oil, political and economic stability and a high rate of interest paid by banking institutions to investors.

In general terms, he said, Mexico continues to be fertile ground for investment, both for her political and economic stability, "one of the strongest of the consensus of the nations of the world."

Six Flags Takes Over Astroworld

Six Flags, Inc. announced today that it is assuming the management and operation of Houston's Astroworld theme park.

Ned P. DeWitt, president of Six Flags, said his company has entered into a twenty-year lease with Astrodome Corporation, owners of the property.

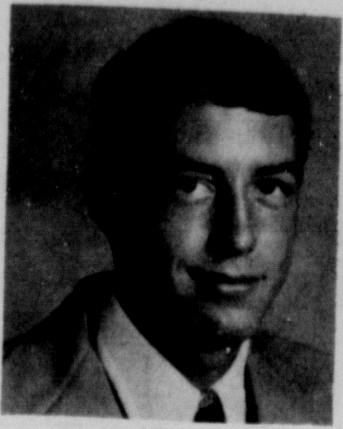

The terms of the agreement called for a graduated scale of lease payments. Six Flags also has an option to renew the lease for an additional ten years. The lease includes approximately forty-five acres of undeveloped property surrounding the park.

Currently, Astroworld attracts just over one million visitors annually. The park was opened in 1968 and designed by the same architects who designed the three Six Flags parks in Dallas/Ft. Worth, Atlanta, and St. Louis.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK, State Comptroller

AUSTIN—Texans who recall the pleasures during their youth of thumbing through a big, thick mail order catalog may be surprised to learn of the problems the mail order business creates for tax collectors.

The problem is a simple one: it's extremely difficult if not impossible to assess and collect sales taxes on goods bought and shipped into Texas from out of state.

The result is that Texas, and probably every other state, loses millions of dollars a year in sales tax revenue.

Texans who must pay state sales taxes on merchandise they purchase here in the state ultimately bear the burden of this situation. Although the sales tax is a tax levied on the consumer, we rely on the retail merchant to collect the tax for us. The plain fact is that the majority of these mail order houses in other states just do not bother to collect the tax and pass it along to us.

From a practical standpoint, it's easy to see, it's just plain impossible to make a guy pay the sales tax on a suit of clothes he bought from a Chicago mail order house.

Federal legislation granting the 50 states the authority to tax sales moving in interstate commerce would be one solution. It could make life much simpler for businesses who deal in interstate commerce and at the same time help the revenue picture for all states who try to collect the taxes on these goods.

This federal legislation would probably be more practical than giving states permission to require out of state retail mail order firms to collect the tax and then send it to the state where the buyer lives.

I think this approach with federal legislation is a dangerous involvement of the federal government in state taxation programs and sincerely believe that we have a better idea in the Comptroller's Department.

I have requested the Legislature to authorize 40 more auditors who will audit the books of no one but businesses outside Texas.

This will increase the scope and efficiency of the out of state audit program and the obvious result will be a great deal more revenue recovered. I can promise you that.

I believe this avenue of approach is the most sensible one and it will enable us to reach those mail order business houses which sell goods in substantial volume to Texans but escape paying Texas its proper taxes.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Why spend hundreds of dollars on doctors and hospitals when for $25 you can buy a sure cure? That's the kind of pitch made by many untrained health quacks.

A trip to a doctor or hospital can indeed be costly in some instances, but the cost of a trip to a quack may well be your life or health, lawyers for the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division caution.

Fear, ignorance, desperation, pain—the quack plays on any and all of these, promising something for everyone. In the process, health frauds take billions of dollars each year for phony drugs, devices, or treatments which at best are useless or inadequate.

The danger of quackery is that dependence on so-called "miracle cures" can delay a trip to a doctor who could prescribe sound treatment and medicine capable of curing or relieving many conditions.

But how do you spot a fraudulent health cure or the quack who sells it so you can avoid being taken? There are several things to look for, and one is the person who guarantees to cure a disease. Few cures can be guaranteed by anyone, so high-pressure advertising or sales pitches containing such terms as "secret, guaranteed formula" or "painless, permanent cure" should be suspect. Doctors usually don't advertise, so you can be sure that those newspaper, magazine, radio, or TV cures are not ordinarily prescribed by physicians.

"Cult" cures, such as special faddish diets or home megavitamin treatments are often promoted by quacks. It's true that proper diet may be helpful in preventing or treating some conditions, but particular foods, special diets, or vitamin therapy are safest if prescribed by a doctor.

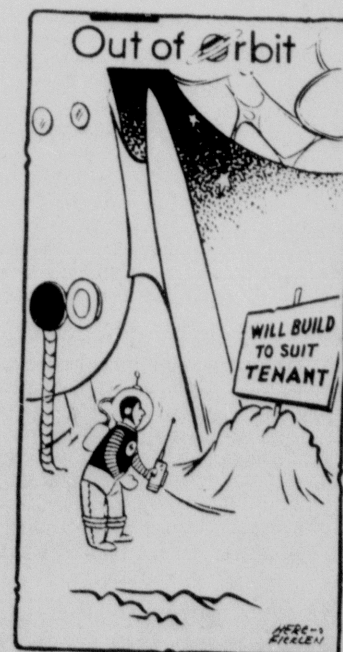

And mail-order cures are very successful—for the quack, that is, not for the person who sends off for them. Some devices offered by mail are actually legitimate and helpful when prescribed or fitted by a doctor. But mail-order hearing aids, glasses, or prosthetic devices cannot be properly fitted, an accurate determination of the extent of disability cannot be made, and the product often is of inferior quality.

Our attorneys remind consumers that extravagant promises of health miracles may be violations of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act in several ways. For instance, they may be examples of false, misleading, or deceptive advertising.

And, if miracle cures are sold door-to-door, they are subject to the same restrictions as other home solicitations. In other words, if a person agrees to buy goods or services for more than $25 in a door-to-door transaction, he has three days to change his mind and cancel any contract by sending notice to the salesman or his firm.

In our brochure, "A Practical Primer for the Texas Consumer," we suggest that consumers consult a doctor before spending a lot of money on expensive health aids or programs. We also urge consumers to check into the reputation of any firm or individual who offers such things, and to talk with others who have dealt with them. If a problem arises, consult the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.
